Since October 2017, JINS has commenced the “JINS Design Project” that collaborates with the world’s leading designers to “design eyeglasses from their essence.” The first installment is a collection of new eyewear designed by Jasper Morrison.

To commemorate the project, a section of Morrison’s studio is presented for a limited period on the 2nd floor of the JINS Shibuya Store. The studio is recreated with the actual furniture and personal items that are used.

In the store, a full line-up of the new eyewear collection is displayed on special fixtures designed by Morrison for this occasion, with visitors welcome to freely try on the items.

A series of Morrison’s publications are also introduced this time, and visitors are invited to view and sit in his newly designed chair produced last year.
